DEDICATION

We twelve senior students of '53 dedicate our annual to our teacher Mrs. Catherine Rubush.

Mrs. Rubush has been a friend to us all in a much greater sense than she has been a teacher. Four years ago when we entered high school we were frightened, timid-little Freshmen, awed by the different environment and upper classmates.

At our first class meeting we found a welcome confidante in Mrs. Rubush. From the beginning she started building in us a feeling of confidence, for which we will always be thankful.

So to the one that we feel most deserves this dedication we say--Thanks, thanks a lot for your guidance as our teacher, for your patience, and most of all--for your friendship.

Fall-1941

Miss Verna Jandt reports an enrollment of eight children in her first grade class.

Fall-1943

We discover a much larger third grade class this year than previously because of the consolidation of the White Rapids and Barker Schools.

Extra!!! At the end of eight years of schooling we find that although children have come and gone the eighth grade still has its original eight plus ten who joined throughout the years.

Spring-1949

The month of June will prove to be an eventful month for the eighth graders when they journey to Marinette to receive their diplomas entitling them to enter high school. A few days later they will embark on a boat trip to Frankfort, Michigan.

Fall-1949

Nineteen frightened freshmen---John Rhodes, Joanne Whittaker, Joan Krumrei, Ellen Dunn, LeRoy Guy, Janet Anderson, Lois Runnion, Timothy Gibb, Jean Beattie, Beatrice Anderson, Marvin Ozburn, Fae Adora Smeester, Kenneth Mattison, Charles Kent, Loretta Fugate, Violetta Smiley, Frank Rhodes, Bill Barnett, Bud Freed---have joined the hustle and bustle of A.H.S. They will be initiated into their new surroundings by their superiors, the mighty sophomores.

March-1950

Extra!!! A new pupil, Loretta Sypel, joins freshmen.

Fall-1950

Upon returning to school the sophomore class finds that it has lost three students, Loretta Sypel, Bill Barnett, and Bud Freed. They will have a chance to show their obtained power by initiating the freshmen into high school.

March-1951

Flash!!! Franklin Rhodes leaves his classmates to serve his country in the Navy.

Fall-1951

The juniors, now upper classmen, find that they have lost Charles Kent, Violetta Smiley and Loretta Fugate. They will enjoy a full schedule of activities during the course of the year which includes their prom and class play.

TWELVE SENIORS COMPLETE HIGH SCHOOL EDUCATION

After a busy year of many preparations the final day ultimately came for the Class of '53. Some will further their education by going on to school, others will go to the big metropolises for employment and few are undecided as to their futures, but we sincerely hope that these young men and women will all enjoy success and happiness throughout their lives. The graduates are as follows: Beatrice Anderson, Marvin Ozburn, Lois Runnion, Lois Runnion, LeRoy Guy, Fae Adora Smeester, John Rhodes, Jean Beattie, Joan Krumrei, Tim Gibb, Ellen Dunn, Joanne Whittaker, Janet Anderson.

Class Will

We, the seniors of Amberg High School, city of Amberg, county of Marinette, and state of Wisconsin, being sound of mind and memory, do hereby revoking any will or wills heretofore made by us.

Beatrice wills her voice to the glee club (Oh Happy Day!) To Karen Holmes, she wills her temper to go with Karen's red hair. Patty Ann may have all her boyfriends.

Janet wills her personality to Hedy, her 5'1" to Kathy Williams (who is too tall) and her blond hair to Edith Ozburn. She leaves all her broken finger nails in the Underwood typewriter after working on the annual.

Jeanne wills her figure to Gladys Beyers and her love for life to Crissie Pomeroy. All her friends she leaves to anyone who is in need of them.

Ellen wills her shy, quiet manner to Ileta and her attractiveness to all the freshmen girls. She, also, wills her voice to the glee club.

Tim wills his athletic technique to David McTrusty and his collegiate air to Charles Landman.

LeRoy wills his crop of hair to Mr. Druml and his business inclinations to Bid Weycker. He also wills his chemistry knowledge to the future chemistry students.

Joan wills her height to LaRee Dunn and her power to make one man happy to Nancy. She definitely will keep Johnny.

Marvin wills his brains to Charles Fick, even though he won't use them, and his love for books to Bill Zahorik. Marvin wants Pat to have all his strength so he can stand up on the basket ball floor.

Johnny wills his height to Coke who will need it next year for basketball. His sense of humor is willed to Donna Mathis and his smile to all the underclass men who frown.

Lois wills her talent in playing "Grandma" parts to Murial. She wants Mary Lu to have her calmness and wills her brown eyes to Linda.

Fae wills her love for Bach and Beethoven to Gary Werner, who would rather hear "Don't Let The Stars Get In Your Eyes". She also wills her voice to the glee club.

Joanne wills her quietness to Charles Landman and her blond hair to Connie Dunn. She wills her wandering fever to Carol White.

The three senior cheerleaders will their cheers, and loud voices to the B team cheerleaders, Joan Fick, Karen Holmes, and Margaret Downing.

To Mrs. Morris we will all the typewriters and Commercial Law books along with an annual to remember how hard she made us work. She may have all the work that goes with the Scribbler, too.

To Mrs. Rubush, the teacher who has taught us since we were freshmen, we will our English and history books and all our term papers. With regret we will the lower classmen to take our places in glee club.

Mr. Olson may have all the chemistry books and experiments, also all the jokes we thought were so funny.

To Mr. Druml, our principal, teacher, and coach, we wish to leave all our gum, thousand word themes and wisecracks. We know he will appreciate the example we seniors have set for the lower grades. We will take all the knowledge we have collected through the years with us.

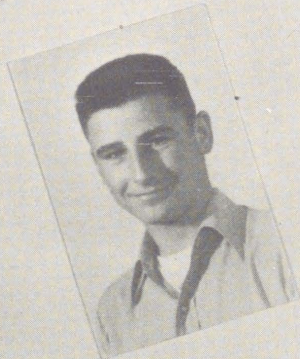

In Witness, Whereof, We, The Seniors, have set our hand and seal hereto this Second Day of March in the year of our Lord, one thousand nine hundred and fifty-three--1953.

CLASS POEM

Farewell, farewell to school days gay,
To all our days of childhood play,
Our tears and joys and wild dismay and antics that made bright each day.

To books and lessons fond adieu;
Those things unlearned we sadly rue;
Yet knowledge learned we'll keep in store,
No longer over books to pore.

Our teachers with pedantic ways
at last have led us to the quays;
We land exhausted on the shore;
To God for strength we now implore.

Farewell, farewell dear Amberg High
We leave thy portal with a sigh;
Old alma mater staunch and true
With tears we say--- Farewell Adieu.

Class Prophecy

A large black Cadillac edged to the curb of the Statler Hotel. Out stepped John Rhodes, a famous young lawyer, followed by his efficient secretary, Janet Anderson. They had just returned from the court house, where John had won a famous case for the F. B. I. As they enter the lobby they hear music coming from the Empire Room. As they look in they notice Beatrice Anderson, now a famous singer, singing the romantic song, "O Promise Me". Beatrice has just returned from a singing engagement at the wedding of Fae Adora Smeester and her husband, the president of the "They Stay Dry Diaper Factory."

The gowns of Fae Adora and Beatrice were designed by a well known dress designer, Ellen Dunn. She will also design and make all of Fae Adora's baby clothes for the future. The costumes for her wedding and honeymoon were modeled by Joanne Whitaker, who is now a permanent model for Teena Page, Inc. She also models French bathing suits.

Janet decided she needed her hair done, and upon entering the beauty salon of Madame Krumerei, she discovered to her amazement that it was none other than Joanie, her former classmate. They talked over their old times and old boyfriends of Amberg High School. During their conversation Joanie mentioned the success that one of their classmates, Marvin Ozburn, was having in the field of Chemistry. It seems "Ozzie" in his chemistry experiments had hit upon a formula for a new kind of shampoo that all the Hollywood stars were excited over. Incidentally he is now classified with the millionaires.

After completing her coiffure, Janet joined attorney Rhodes in the main lobby. There she found him chatting with two strangers. They seemed rather important so Janet approached her employer rather cautiously when somebody sang out, "Hi, Janet !" She was surprised to find that the voice came from none other than one of the important looking men that her employer was talking with. As she came closer she noticed that it was Timmy Gibb and with him was LeRoy Guy. As they burst into conversation, all talking at the same time, Janet discovered that Timmy had finished his University training and was now a civil engineer, on leave from South America where he was in the process of constructing a dam of similar immensity as our own Grand Coulee Dam. He was at the present time trying to get American Labor to assist him.

LeRoy had also made his mark in the world by stepping from coal shoveler to the head of the United Mine Workers of America, stepping in the very shoes of John L. Louis. His union was contemplating a labor walk-out and he was in New York to bring about negotiations for his workers. As the foursome were retiring to the main dining room for dinner, a blood-curdling siren was heard coming from the avenue. They hurried outside only to see that an accident had occurred. Kenny Mattison, now a traffic cop, was stopping traffic in both directions. An ambulance pulled up and out stepped a petite young nurse ready for action. It turned out to be Lois Runnion who had finished her nurses training at St. Lukes hospital, and who now was on the nursing staff of said hospital. There were several people injured in the accident. One, a member of the armed service who was being given special attention possibly because of her rank. The injured lieutenant was Jeanne Beattie, a member of the WAFS, Women in the Air Force. Her injuries consisted largely of shock and bruises.

Much to the surprise of everyone the entire graduating class of '53 had had an unexpected reunion. Since Jeanne was not seriously injured and would recover under Lois's competent care, the foursome entered the dining room for a belated dinner.
